Chairman Terhar, Ranking Minority Member Fedor and members of the Committee, my name is Tony Bledsoe. I am the Executive Director of the Joint Legislative Ethics Committee and the Office of the Legislative Inspector General. The Office of the Legislative Inspector General ("OLIG") is a six-person office accountable to the Joint Legislative Ethics Committee ("JLEC"). The OLIG is responsible for the implementation of Ohio Revised Code Chapter 102—the state's ethics laws as it pertains to state legislative officials and employees, including: Members and employees of, and candidates for, the Ohio General Assembly. Additionally, the OLIG is responsible for the regulation of state-level lobbying activity.

When considering the topic of ethics in government, the focus is too often on alleged and proven ethics violations. This limited focus risks a distorted view of the ethics of public officials. In regards to the Ohio General Assembly, its overall ethical culture is more accurately reflected by: the votes not participated in, the outside employment opportunities not pursued, the letters not written, the gifts not accepted, and the many other ethical decisions its members and staff consciously make on a daily basis.

Although we work with law enforcement, and particularly the Department of Justice Public Corruption Task Force, we are not a law enforcement agency. At the direction of bipartisan leadership, the OLIG serves as an advisory office; continuing its focus on the prevention of ethics violations. Legislators and legislative staff have come to rely upon prompt answers from the OLIG as they consider various courses of actions. This willingness to seek guidance is a reflection of the proactive approach the Ohio General Assembly takes to ethics compliance.

We not only provide legal advice on various ethics issues; we also distribute and review financial disclosure statements for the General Assembly. All financial disclosure statements are available for public viewing at our website. We continue to provide personalized answers to filers on their filing questions. By working with candidates and legislators before they file, we increase the accuracy and completeness of the information provided to the public.

As part of its ethics compliance program, the OLIG conducts multiple training sessions. All legislative employees attend either bi-annual or annual ethics trainings. Caucus specific training is conducted for all Members at the beginning of a General Assembly. Newly elected Members attend an ethics session at New Member Orientation, and monthly sessions are held for new employees.

The majority of OLIG resources are dedicated to regulating the lobbying activity of up to 1,700 lobbyists representing over 1,800 lobbying clients at the state level. The OLIG is responsible for lobbying compliance relative to attempts to influence legislation, executive agency decisions, and the investment decisions of the five state retirement systems. We are also responsible for maintaining a database of the names of individuals banned from lobbying in Ohio.

To provide you with a statistical overview of our work, I can report that in calendar year 2018 we conducted thirty-nine training sessions; answered over 3,000 substantive ethics and lobbying questions; issued nine general guidance memorandum; ten informal legal opinions and one formal advisory opinion. We also conducted or participated in reviews of six allegations pertaining to violations of the ethics laws. The OLIG reviewed and processed over 24,000 filings including: lobbying registrations, lobbying activity and expenditure reports, post-employment disclosure statements as well as financial disclosure statements.

The OLIG strives to provide increased services without seeking increased general revenue funds or staff. When created in 1994, the OLIG had six employees. This number remains the same today. As has been the case in my budget testimony since the 126th General Assembly, I am here today to respectfully request flat general revenue funding in the annual amount of $550,000 in Fiscal Years 20 and 21. I also request that our annual spending authority from the 4G7 lobbying fee account remain at $150,000 annually and at $10,000 from the 5HNO JLEC Investigative Financial Disclosure Fund. We will make every effort to utilize less than the spending authority.

Thank you for the opportunity to testify and answer your questions.
