

As a veteran law enforcement officer I know our response times (especially rural areas) allows far to much time for an active killer to injure or kill innocent students. Even having law enforcement on campus, (the Virginia Tech shooting has a large police presence on campus when that event started), does not guarantee a good outcome. Having an armed response team on school grounds is the most effective means to minimize the damage.