

Having an Airbnb was suggested to me by a friend. I have a small cottage across the driveway from my main house. I had previously rented it by the month. We are located about 1/2 mile from a large horse show grounds and many of my quests have been show horse people, but I have also had a lady staying whose house had burned and she needed a temporary place while repairs were made. I had a couple stay from Washington state. Their daughter had just had a new baby, but her house was too small to accommodate them. I had a couple stay who had just sold their house, but they couldn't move into their new place for about 2 weeks. In all of these instances, the folks only needed to stay for a short time. Had they not stayed at my place, they would have had to stay at a motel with no kitchen and in a much smaller place. I have really enjoyed getting to know people from different places. The extra income also allowed me to pay bills. Thank you!

Sincerely,
