

My reaction and thoughts of what happened to my brother are endless. I could go on and on but I'm going to keep it short and simple. When will I see him again? Will I ever see him again? What happened to him? Is this severe? Are they joking? Is my brother dead? You might think this is a lot, but there is so much more. My reactions were crazy, but isn't that what a sister does when her brother is on the brink of dying. This affected a lot of people. I would think these are some of the thoughts that others who have faced Burns would think, more so their family and friends than the ones that actually got burned. I had to spend more than a month without my mom and my brother. I couldn't even see my brother. When he came home for the 1st time I was able to see him, but it was only a few days before he was right back in the hospital. It doesn't matter who it happens to because this is the worst thing to happen to anyone. That is why I support my brother into making this into a bill. He is one of the strongest people I have ever known in my life.
