SUMMARY

- Prohibits the state retirement system boards, Administrator of Workers' Compensation, and boards of trustees of state institutions of higher education from making an investment decision with the primary purpose of influencing any social or environmental policy or the governance of any corporation (ESG).
- Requires the state retirement system boards, Administrator, and boards of trustees of state institutions of higher education to make investment decisions solely to maximize the return on investments.

DETAILED ANALYSIS

Environmental, social, and corporate governance policies

The bill prohibits the state retirement system boards and Administrator of Workers' Compensation from making an investment decision with the primary purpose of influencing any social or environmental policy or the governance of any corporation (ESG), and specifically prohibits the Administrator from investing funds with a primary purpose of ESG. It additionally prohibits the boards, Bureau of Workers' Compensation (BWC) Board of Directors, and Administrator from adopting or promoting a policy under which the board or Administrator makes investment decisions with the primary purpose of ESG.¹ The bill does not define ESG. Thus, it is not clear how to determine whether an investment decision could influence social or environmental policy or the governance of a corporation under the bill.²

Fiduciary duties

The bill requires the retirement boards and Administrator to make investment decisions with the sole purpose of maximizing the return on investments in accordance with the board's or Administrator's fiduciary duties under continuing law.³ Under continuing law, each state retirement system board has full authority to invest the system's funds, and the board and other fiduciaries must discharge their duties with respect to the funds solely in the interest of the system's participants and beneficiaries. The Administrator may invest the surplus and reserve of the State Insurance Fund as well as other funds of the workers' compensation system.

Continuing law requires the boards and Administrator to make investment decisions following the "prudent person standard," which requires each board and the Administrator to act:

[W]ith care, skill, prudence, and diligence under the circumstances then prevailing that a prudent person acting in a like capacity and familiar with these matters would use in the conduct of an enterprise of a like character and with like aims.

The boards and the Administrator also must diversify the investments so as to minimize the risk of large losses, unless under the circumstances it is clearly prudent not to do so.

The Administrator also is specifically prohibited from investing funds in certain types of investments, such as coins and antiques, as well as any other class of investments specifically prohibited by the BWC Board of Directors.⁴

State institution of higher education endowments

The bill requires a board of trustees of a state institution of higher education to manage its endowment portfolio to maximize the return on the board's investments. It prohibits a board of trustees from making investment decisions or adopting investment policies regarding its endowment portfolio with the primary purpose of influencing ESG, or allowing a person or entity to which the board has delegated the management of part or all of its endowment portfolio from engaging in or promoting such decisions or policies. Beginning on the bill's effective date, a board of trustees cannot accept a bequest made by a decedent that requests the donation be used for those purposes.⁵
