Dear Behavioral Health

Committee:

My name is Chase B.

Turner. I am 9 years old.

I was in foster care for a long time. It was really hard. Trauma sometimes makes my mind go blank. That makes it hard when I try to learn something new.

Sometimes I have big emotions. Reading makes me feel better because it takes my mind off of the thing I was thinking about. There are things that a person can do to calm himself.

I support you starting this study commission. I do not want other kids to go through what me and my brother went through.

Sincerely,

Chase Barton Turner
