To Ohio Representatives Education Committee

I am writing in support of the CPR in Schools program and hope that the program continues to get funding. On behalf of the students and staff of Columbus City Schools, we would like to express our heartfelt gratitude for the CPR kits to our high schools. This program is a remarkable contribution to the safety and well-being of our students, staff, and community.

Learning CPR is an essential life-saving skill, and for students in a lower-income urban district like ours, it's a skill that can have a profound impact on their lives and the lives of those around them. In communities where access to health resources can sometimes be limited, knowing how to respond in an emergency can make all the difference. With the help of these CPR kits, our students are now equipped with the knowledge and tools they need to potentially save a life.

The importance of CPR training extends far beyond the classroom. It empowers our students to step up in critical situations, whether at home or in their communities. In areas where emergency response times may be longer due to limited resources, having trained individuals who can act immediately is vital. This knowledge helps foster a sense of responsibility and community care among our students, preparing them to be proactive, confident, and capable individuals.

We are incredibly grateful for the opportunity to provide our students with this life-saving training, and we are proud to know that we are equipping them with skills that could one day save a life. This donation is more than just a box of supplies—it's an investment in our students' futures, their sense of responsibility, and the overall safety of our community.

Thank you for the funding for the CPR in Schools program. We look forward to continuing to build safer, stronger communities with the knowledge and skills that CPR training provides.

Sincerely,

Kristen Schreiber
