Statement of Support for Ohio House Bill 186

I support Ohio House Bill 186, legislation that limits school districts falling below the 20-mill floor from automatically increasing property tax collections beyond the rate of inflation as measured by the Consumer Price Index (CPI). This bill addresses a long-standing inequity in Ohio's property tax system — one that allows certain districts to see unvoted tax increases year after year simply because property values rise. By tying these increases to the CPI, HB 186 provides a fair, measured approach that aligns school revenue growth with real economic conditions.

Ohio's current system can unfairly penalize homeowners, especially in districts where the 20-mill floor has triggered significant tax hikes without voter input. Families living on fixed incomes, retirees, and working-class residents bear the brunt of these increases. HB 186 restores transparency and accountability by ensuring that future revenue growth reflects actual inflation rather than unchecked property appreciation. This is a commonsense solution that balances the needs of local schools with the rights of taxpayers.

Ultimately, HB 186 is about fairness and sustainability. It ensures that school funding grows responsibly while protecting taxpayers from escalating, automatic tax burdens. Ohio families deserve a system that encourages fiscal discipline and community trust — not one that quietly raises taxes without consent. HB 186 moves us in the right direction by making our property tax structure more equitable, predictable, and accountable to the people it serves.
