Sponsor Testimony

Senate Concurrent Resolution 1

Senate Armed Services, Veterans Affairs and Public Safety Committee

January 29th, 2025

Vice Chair Wilson, Ranking Member Weinstein, and members of the Senate Armed Services, Veterans Affairs and Public Safety Committee: Thank you for the opportunity to provide sponsor testimony on Senate Concurrent Resolution 1.

This resolution urges Congress to designate fentanyl as a Weapon of Mass Destruction.

As the opioid crisis has swept over our nation, fentanyl has remained at the forefront. It is 50 times more potent than heroin, 100 times more potent than morphine,¹ and is frequently laced into other counterfeit or illicit substances. While there are some legitimate uses for fentanyl as a severe pain medication or anesthetic, its popularity in the illicit drug market has exploded due to its potency, cheapness to manufacture, overall profitability, ease of smuggling, and for the exponential damage that it does to citizens of nations other than the People's Republic of China.

Only two milligrams of fentanyl can be a fatal dose, and one kilogram of fentanyl has the potential to kill 500,000 people. Forty-two percent of pills tested for fentanyl contained at least a potentially lethal dose of the drug.² In 2021, over 70,000 Americans lost their lives to fentanyl, and this number is likely underreported given the nature of the death.³ More than 4000 of those Americans were Ohioans.⁴

While tragic, this crisis is no accident. Drug cartels, money laundering enterprises, and enemies of the United States such as the Chinese Communist Party profit directly from the distribution of fentanyl.

Many of you have already heard explained through my previous testimonies during the 135th GA, the evils of cartels and how they perpetuate drug trafficking into the United States. Even the Trump Administration has wisely seen fit to designate these cartels as Foreign Terrorist Organizations.⁵ Seizures of drugs in enormous, lucrative quantities, especially on our southern border, has increased each year.

Further back in the supply chain, the People's Republic of China financially rewards companies that manufacture fentanyl and its precursors through tax incentives and special economic designations.⁶

At each and every stage of illicit fentanyl's production and distribution, it is used as a tool of destabilization and destruction.

Foreign actors have also used fentanyl explicitly as a tool of war. Famously, in 2002, Russia used a fentanyl-related gas to attempt to neutralize a group of Chechen rebels who had taken hostages in a Moscow theater. While exact numbers are disputed, the gas had destructive consequences, killing many innocent hostages.⁷

Former Acting Director of the CIA Michael Morell described carfentanil, an even more potent derivative of fentanyl, as “a significant threat to national security” and “a weapon of mass destruction,” going on to say “Indeed, carfentanil is the perfect terrorist weapon. It is readily available in large quantities. It comes in several forms – including tablets, powder, and spray. It can be absorbed through the skin or through inhalation. It acts quickly. And, it is deadly.”⁸ He continues to urge the United States government and the intelligence community to take this threat seriously.

The Stop Our Scourge Act, proposed by the 118th Congress, takes a meaningful step in doing so, by designating illicit fentanyl as a weapon of mass destruction, which is why I believe the Ohio Legislature should urge its reintroduction and passage.

Thank you again for your time and attention. I will be happy to answer any questions you may have.
