Chair Cirino, Vice Chair Chavez, Ranking Member Hicks-Hudson, and members of the Finance Committee. My name is Matt McClellan, I am the Executive Director of STAR Community Justice Center in Scioto County, and a Trustee of CorJus, Inc. CorJus is a professional association that represents eleven publicly operated Community Based Correctional Facilities (CBCFs) in Ohio. I greatly appreciate this opportunity to provide this testimony on substitute House Bill 96, the state operating budget for FY26/27.

CBCFs have existed in Ohio since 1978, when the first one was created by the Ohio Department of Rehabilitation and Corrections. CBCFs have since grown to serve all eighty-eight counties in Ohio providing residential treatment to over 7,500 offenders annually, with several thousand more in a variety of outpatient programs. CBCFs were originally just an alternative sentencing option for felony level offenders. However, as the need to help these offender populations in local communities have increased, CBCFs have evolved into robust therapeutic facilities, providing treatment at high dosage levels and developing additional services to meet all the offenders' criminogenic needs. CBCFs take a holistic approach, addressing behavioral needs like substance abuse coupled with medically assisted treatment (MAT) services, mental health, trauma, anger management, and cognitive restructuring, but additionally developing educational and social needs through educational attainment, employment and vocational skills, as well as family reunification among many others.

CBCFs have shown they are effective at maintaining safe and secure environments while working with high-risk offenders and addressing the multifaceted needs that lead to them recidivating. The typical offenders are no longer low risk but now have greater instances of violent tendencies, dually diagnosed with various mental health needs, and have little to no employability skills. In this, CBCFs have shown a great ability to effectively manage these populations with significantly lower instances of violence and/or uses of force. With a more therapeutic culture created within, the environments are naturally suited to address many of the social determinants of health for this population. Currently, most CBCFs are GED testing centers and provide Adult Diploma certified vocational certifications. CBCFs work to link residents to employment and provide aftercare services upon release. Thus, to maintain these safer environments and help prepare offenders to be better qualified employees for Ohio's workforce, CBCFs must increase funding to retain highly trained and specialized staff.

Considering these facts and the integral role that CBCFs serve for their communities and the state, we request that the Senate restore the 501501 line item at the as introduced and House supported funding level. The increases of 4.4% in 2026, totaling $4,358,400, and an additional 4% in 2027, totaling $4,146,200, were reached through the collaboration of all CBCFs and ODRC and will continue sustaining CBCFs in appropriately addressing the significant needs of these justice involved individuals. It cannot be stressed enough that CBCFs need to retain highly trained and specialized staff to appropriately handle the significant needs of the populations served. CBCFs are a smart investment for the state as they can not only divert high level offenders from more costly institutions, but they educate and restore offenders to be better citizens. Failing to support these original increases could adversely impact safety levels for offenders and staff, reduce operational capacities of facilities, and create less than optimal results for the participants and the programs.

In the last budget, CBCFs were included in the Behavioral Health Drug Reimbursement Program located in line-item MHA 336442 within the Department of Mental Health and Addiction Services' budget. This program granted offenders access to expanded services targeting their addiction and withdrawal, as well as psychotropic medications to treat the increasing mental health needs. CorJus has discussed the program with OHMAS and based on submittals for reimbursement, the participants and needs for this program have grown significantly higher. However, the reimbursement rates are decreasing due to these rising demands of participants.

The House had originally increased this program's line from $5,250,000 to $7,750,000 and the Senate maintained part of this increase. We understand this is a tight fiscal year but the benefit to the community that this program provides needs to be understood. Over the last biennium in just CorJus facilities alone, over 4,400 offenders benefitted from this program, providing them with the psychotropic and MAT resources they needed. Without the investment being increased for this program, it will lead to more offenders being denied from CBCFs and being potentially diverted to more costly alternatives, such as prisons or state hospitals.

As I close this testimony, I would like to thank all those other entities that have worked collaboratively with CorJus in continuing to improve the continuum that Ohio has for serving offenders. Thank you to both the Department of Rehabilitation and Corrections and the Department of Mental Health and Addiction Services for continuing to invest and prioritize community corrections. Thank you also to our community corrections partners, the Ohio Community Corrections Association, and the Ohio Justice Alliance for Community Corrections. It is through our combined efforts that we will continue to make the greatest impact we can for our communities.

Chair Cirino and members of the committee, I appreciate you allowing me the opportunity to provide this testimony and please feel free to contact me with any questions.
