

I'm writing to implore you to not let the current horrific attempt to restrict trans and nonbinary Ohioans' right to their own identities creep its way into this fine state. Please do not allow any language that redefines "sex" as "biological sex" into budget discussions, as the entire and specific point is to harm anyone different.

There is no practical purpose. There is no financial benefit. Restricting who gets to exist in your state will do nothing but tell everyone in and outside of Ohio that you don't want them here and that anyone who isn't already harmed by these attacks is only one "divergence" away from being the next target.

Show your people and the rest of the country that you care about them, and deserve to represent them.
