

The Anthony-Thomas Candy Family is thrilled that there is an opportunity for the Buckeye being named the official state candy of Ohio!

For generations, the Buckeye has been more than just a delicious combination of chocolate and peanut butter — it's a true symbol of Ohio pride, community, and tradition. From family kitchens to local candy shops like ourselves, this iconic treat represents the warmth, creativity, and craftsmanship that define our state.

At Anthony-Thomas Candy Company, we take great pride in our Candy Buckeyes that are manufactured right here in Columbus, where our family-owned company has been part of Ohio's sweet story for decades. To see this beloved confection recognized at the state level is both an honor and a reflection of the joy it has brought to countless Ohioans over the years.

We wholeheartedly support the Buckeye being named Ohio's official state candy — it's a wonderful way to celebrate our shared heritage and the simple, timeless sweetness that connects us all. This is a great step forward for our beautiful state, and we couldn't be prouder to be part of its legacy.
