

Hello Chair O'Brien,

My name is Tracie Tweet, and I write to you to advocate for your support of hosts who work to make sure that our homes are enjoyed by all who want to come and visit our cities.

Though we live in California, we have a home in downtown Cincinnati in Over the Rhine. My children were born there as well as my husband, and he attended the University of Cincinnati medical school. It is a gorgeous city that has gone under so many transformations. It is a way for us to visit and also supplement our income. Without the protections that you can advocate for the loss of our home in OTR would affect us in many ways. But for the most part, the ability to share this fabulous city with others is why we are hosts. Please support standardization for short term rentals and advocating for the rights of hosts to be able to provide these homes and also make a living. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Tracie Tweet
