earlier start time of a college football game between two teams 20 is a college football tradition. For this purpose, a "college 21 football tradition" is a start time of a game between the teams 22 of two institutions whose football teams have competed against 23 each other at least fifty times and the start time has been the 24 same for at least ninety-five per cent of those games. 25

(D) If a game subject to division (B) of this section 26 starts at a time earlier than permitted by that division, the 27 attorney general shall impose a fine of ten million dollars 28 against either the host team's football athletic conference or 29 the television network broadcasting or streaming the game, 30 whichever party scheduled the earlier start time. 31

(E) No state university shall enter into or renew a 32 contract with the national collegiate athletic association, an 33 athletic conference, or a media entity under which any entity, 34 directly or indirectly, may compel or permit the university's 35 football team to commence a college football game that is 36 subject to division (B) of this section at a time that violates 37 that division. 38
