

We are totally against the state, county, or city using eminent domain to take any property for recreational purposes of any kind. If there was an emergency, it would be different, but recreational use does not qualify. We have enjoyed the natural beauty of nature as it was intended. To deliberately destroy the natural beauty by allowing recreational trails to run freely across it is against all common sense. There is no way to police the actions of the individuals if allowed. Eminent domain should never be used as an excuse to allow recreational trails on private land or near it.
