

Testimony on House Bill 99
Senate Veterans and Public Safety Committee

I am a resident and voter in the state of Ohio. I am also from a family of gun owners and was trained to shoot by my grandfather when I was a young girl. I am a survivor of gun violence and a caregiver for people who have experienced the trauma of gun violence. And as a woman, I am 11 times more likely to be murdered with a gun than any other developed nation.

I am in strong opposition to HB 99. I understand that the goal of HB99 is to keep Ohio's children safer, but in fact, data shows it will do the opposite. The research is clear that bringing guns into classrooms will make children less safe. Firearms are now the leading cause of death for America's children and teens. Simply having access to a gun increases the risk of suicide by three times and homicide by two times. The less children are exposed to guns, the safer they will be. If we really want to keep students safe, we must listen to the research: pass criminal background checks on all gun sales, pass red flag laws and safe storage laws, add physical security upgrades, develop emergency planning among staff, and provide access to school mental health professionals.

We have just seen in Texas and Buffalo that even very well-trained security personnel, police, and border police did not know the best way to approach an armed shooter who in some cases had better weapons and protection than they had. Keeping Ohio school children safe most definitely does not include radically reducing the current training requirement for armed teachers. The Ohio Supreme Court ruled that an armed teacher must have at least 20 years' experience as an active duty peace officer or have completed Ohio Peace Officer Training. HB 99 would gut that training requirement down to only 22 hours. There is no amount of training that makes it safe for teachers to carry guns in schools.

Most teachers, law enforcement officials and parents DO NOT WANT THIS. We also do not want our schools and other public buildings and stores to become armed citadels just so that 18-year-olds can buy dangerous guns. If HB99 passes we can most certainly expect more accidental shootings to occur, more guns winding up in precarious locations, and, should a real school shooter enter the vicinity, this piece of legislation is going to contribute to the loss of life of the children you are hoping to protect. For the safety of all of Ohio's school children, please reject HB 99 and focus instead on legislation that would prevent school shootings before they occur..

Respectfully,

Marcia Miller Galloway, OH
