

I am against House Joint Resolution 1 because I think it's unfair. Citizen-based initiatives are one of the few ways citizens have collectively of making changes. When I've made phone calls to elected officials, I have been told that the elected official does not share those views. So, where does that leave me and others like me. We are living with extreme polarization of views and sometimes values and I feel large groups of voters are not being represented.

House Joint Resolution 1 is unfair because it will make it harder for voters to make changes. To require 60% majority is a steep requirement and the signatures in all 88 counties - that's just wow - tough.

There is nothing wrong with the 50% + 1 majority. For current law makers to make it harder for citizens to have their voices heard is wrong. I am against House Joint Resolution 1. Vote NO.
