House Bill 230 – Proponent Testimony
House Homeland Security Committee

Chair Ghanbari, Vice Chair Plummer, Ranking Member Thomas, and members of the House Homeland Security Committee, thank you for allowing me to provide proponent testimony today on HB 230.

My name is Heinz von Eckartsberg. I am the retired Chief of Police in Dublin, Ohio and most recently, the assistant superintendent of the Ohio Bureau of Criminal Investigation. I am testifying today on behalf of the membership of the Ohio Association of Chiefs of Police.

The Chiefs Association applauds the efforts of Representatives Abrams and Swearingen for sponsoring this bill in an effort to increase the penalties and deterrent effect of our laws for both drug and human trafficking offenses.

In Ohio, over 80% of unintentional drug overdose deaths involve fentanyl. As you know, drug dealers mix fentanyl with many types of commonly used street drugs such as methamphetamine, cocaine, and fake prescription medication pills. It is impossible for users of these drugs to know if what they are taking has been mixed with deadly synthetic opioids without actually testing them. Thus, nearly every user of recreational drugs is at risk of an unintentional fentanyl overdose. Unfortunately, this has resulted in the crisis of overdose deaths we have seen skyrocket in recent years.

The crisis on our southern border has exacerbated this problem because of the persistent efforts of the cartels to bring these drugs, including fentanyl, into the US. As the sponsors of this bill have seen first-hand, these efforts often result in these traffickers making their way to all corners of the U.S., including Ohio.

As Representatives Abrams and Swearingen stressed in their sponsor testimony, this bill is not about immigration. It is, however, about increasing the deterrent effects of Ohio law to discourage the continuing influx of these drugs into the Buckeye state.

We are strongly in favor of the provisions in this bill that will increase the penalties for trafficking in cocaine, fentanyl, heroin and methamphetamine. We also strongly support the provisions in this bill that expand the definition of human trafficking, in an effort to stop the flow of these drugs into Ohio. We also strongly support the specification of a mandatory prison term of 5 years for any individual convicted of, or who pleads guilty to causing a fentanyl-related death.

Again, we applaud the efforts of the sponsors to provide Ohio law enforcement with the tools to combat the scourge of drug-related crime in Ohio.

Thank you again for the opportunity to share testimony on behalf of the Ohio Association of Chiefs of Police. I am happy to answer any questions from the committee at this time.
